

Signing Contracts on “Grant Assistance for Grass-Roots Human Security Projects”

“Grant Assistance for Grass-Roots Human Security Projects (GGP)” implemented by the Government of Japan is a flexible and timely funding scheme, which supports grass-roots level socio-economic development projects initiated by civil society organizations addressing people’s Basic Human Needs (BHNs).

On 2 February, H.E. Mr. AIKAWA Kazutoshi, Ambassador of Japan to Iran signed a GGP contract with the State Welfare Organization of Lorestan Province for The Project for Introduction of Rehabilitation Equipment for Indigent and Disabled People in Lorestan Province of 58,074 Euro.

The Embassy of Japan has supported the projects proposed by NGOs and local governments since 1999 through this GGP scheme, and has carried out more than 150 projects in this country so far in the fields of primary education, primary health care, public welfare, and rural development.

The Government of Japan will continue to support NGOs and local governments of Iran in the humanitarian and development field.
